PRICE THREE CENTS

SOLICITORS FOR DANCE ORDERED OUT OF BOROUGH

Quartet of Baltimoreans Preys Upon Generosity of Local Citizens.

USED TELEPHONE TO MAKE SALES

Preying upon the generosity and gullibility of Gettysburg businessmen, four Baltimore "slickers" reaped a harvest of several hundred dollars here Monday and Tuesday by representing that their collections were being made in behalf of the Mont Alto fire department which was reported to be badly in need of new fire fighting apparatus.

The quartet is known to have operated here Monday afternoon and on Tuesday until late afternoon when two suspicious businessmen reported the operations of the strangers to the borough police.
The "promoters" were quickly escorted from the borough.

The police learned that one or two of the Baltimoreans, using a telephone at a local lodging house, had been calling prominent residents and in a suave and convincing manner explain the plight of the Mont Alto fire fighters, adding that the speaker was helping to arrange a dance to be held April 15 at the state forestry school at Mont Alto for the purpose of raising money for the new equipment.

The voice on the telephone would explain that mutual friends or members of the Mont Alto company had suggested the prospective purchaser as a man who would be willing and ready to help in the worthy cause of protecting the mountain community from fire loss.
Dance tickets, it was explained, would cost only $1.50. Many of the men contacted here readily consented and a short time later a member of the quartet would arrive at the office or place of business of the man who had reserved the ticket, make the delivery and collect the $1.50.

4th Man Not Located

After the police had been told of the affair, they were on hand to meet the man with the tickets.
One, it was found, already had made nearly a score of deliveries here and had more than a dozen more tickets bearing the names of local persons who had been contacted by telephone. Only three members of the quartet were located by the officers. The police were told that the fourth man was the one whose telephonic operations had brought such good results.

The men were ordered from town.
After communicating with Mont Alto authorities, it was learned here that the Baltimoreans had made arrangements for the dance more than two weeks ago and had since been canvassing town in this section, including Waynesboro, Chambersburg, Greencastle and others.

It was estimated that probably well over $1,000 already has been gathered by the men through the use of the name of the Mont Alto fire company. That organization was given a $65 guarantee when the plans for the dance were laid.

Fire company officials at Mont Alto said that they "had no idea" that the men intended to canvass so wide a territory in their dance promotion work.

Sportsmen Oppose Sunday Fishing Bill

Members and officers of the Adams county fish and game association are pressing their opposition to the bill now in committee in the state senate which would legalize Sunday fishing. At the last meeting of the county sportsmen a resolution was passed asking the state enator and the representative from his district to fight passage of the measure. Those who are organizing opposition to the bill here report that they have secured the cooperation of the members of the county and local ministerial associations.

The April meeting of the association will be held Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Eagle hotel.

Firemen to Arrange Southeastern Program

President James B. Aumen announced today that a special meeting of the Gettysburg fire company will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the fire engine house.

The principal reason for the special session is the necessity of making preparations for the quarterly meeting of the Southeastern Pennsylvania firemen's association which will be held here next week.

$50 Damage Action Appealed to Court

An appeal from a decision of Justice of the Peace L. G. Kuhn, Conewago township, in a damage action was filed today at the office of Prothonotary C. Arthur Brame by Joel H. Griest, York Springs, defendant in the case brought by Richard C. Baker, East Berlin, R. 2, as the result of an automobile collision at Bermudian last November 10.

Justice Kuhn gave judgment in favor of Baker in the amount of $50 at a hearing before him in February.

SPEEDER NABBED

Earl Tanzer, Philadelphia, was charged with speeding on the Lincoln highway east of here at noon today in an information filed before Justice of the Peace John H. Base-more by a highway patrolman from the local substation. Tanzer is alleged to have been driving at the rate of 55 miles an hour.

40 ENROLLEES TRANSFERRED

Group Goes to Schnecks-ville Today; Captain Monaghan Sent to Wyoming Co.

Forty enrollees left CCC camp No.
1 today for a camp at Schnecks-ville, 11 miles from Allentown, as evacuation of the camp site here continued.

An equal number is to be absorbed by Camp M. P. No. 2 on the battlefield here this afternoon or Thursday. Eleven local enrollees have been discharged and three others of the 105 negroes who signed up for another six months with the CCC last month have resigned to accept private employment.

Seven are in hospitals at the present and others of the remaining enrollees will be held here temporarily to wind up affairs at the old camp site.

Formal presentation of the camp equipment and buildings to James R. McConaghie, national park superintendent, is expected to take place Thursday, when the evacuation of the camp will have been completed.

Captain Paul K. Monaghan, commander of Camp No. 1 since last July, has been notified of his transfer to a camp at Mehoopany, Wyoming county. The transfer will become effective as soon as the officer has completed camp business here.

WOULD UNITE WOMEN'S CLUBS

Representatives of County Organizations Meet to Nominate Officers.

Representatives of the three women's clubs of Adams county belonging to the state federation of Pennsylvania women met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. S. Saby, Carlisle street, for the purpose of nominating officers for the county federation which will be organized later in the spring.

The Gettysburg Mothers' club was represented by Mrs. Mark K. Eckert and Mrs. Thomas L. Cline; the Littlestown Women's civic club by Mrs.
Lloyd E. Crouse and Mrs. Joseph R.
Riden; and the Triloby club, Biglerville, by Mrs. S. Gray Bigham
and Mrs. D. C. Jacobs. Mrs. R. S.
Saby served as temporary chairman of the nomination committee.

The clubs plan to present at the May meeting of the Cumberland Valley league of the state federation to be held at Shippensburg Thursday, May 6, a motion that they form a county federation along with a state of approved officers for such an organization. In event that the various counties of the Cumberland Valley league approve the formation of a county organization, the league will be dissolved.

The change will be made because it is felt that various projects can be carried on more successfully by the county organizations than by a larger organization which covers a territory of varied needs and problems.

POOR DIRECTOR IMPROVES

William N. Hartman, Menallen township member of the board of county poor directors, was in Gettysburg Tuesday to attend his first meeting of the board in three months. Ill health had confined the director to his home for the greater part of the time since early January.

Mrs. Howard Sheffer entertained the members of the Tuesday Afternoon bridge club to which she belongs, yesterday at her home on Baltimore street. The club will meet in one week with Mrs. Radford Lippy, Springs avenue.

14 DISTRICTS CUT TAX RATE; 5 ARE RAISED

Figures for County
Townships and Boroughs Are Compared.

COLLECTORS' BONDS GIVEN

Municipal tax levies in the 32 taxing districts of Adams county total 20½ mills less than the 1936 rates, a comparison of the millages set by boards of road supervisors in townships and borough councils shows.

This year the road and borough taxes were cut in 14 of the 32 townships and boroughs. In only five were the rates raised and in the remaining 13, there was no change in the millage.

In the districts where the tax rates were lowered the decreases ranged from a half mill to four mills. In none of the five districts that increased the levy was the rate pushed up more than one mill.

Districts that increased the 1936 rate when they set the millage for this year follow: Biglerville, one mill; East Berlin, one half mill; Gettysburg, one mill; Littlestown, one mill; and Mount Joy township, one mill.

Districts that cut below the 1936
level this year follow: Arendtsville, one mill; Butler township, three mills; Conewago township, one-half mill; Cumberland township, one mill; Franklin township, four mills;

ilton township, one mill; Highland township, one mill; Latimore township, three mills; Liberty township, two mills; New Oxford, one half mill; Straban township, one mill; Tyrone township, three mills, and York Springs, three mills.

Original Play by Dr. Arms Is Based On Iron Man's Life

The story of the life of a successful iron manufacturer is contained in the play, "I Made Iron," written by Dr. Richard A. Arms, of Gettysburg college, and being prepared for presentation in the college gymnasium Friday evening. Members of the Owl and Nightingale Dramatic club will play the parts. Doctor Arms, is director of the club.

The play opens in the fall of 1898 and closes in 1937. Three generations of the iron man's family pass across the stage.

The members of the cast are Samuel B. Shirk, Dorothy Lengel, Robert Sassaman, Robert Hanson,
H. R. Jones, Robert Horne, Fred Eckert, Lloyd Schrader, James Gelbert, J. E. Trimmer, Fred Messinger, Nolan Little, Keith Fischer, Mar-na Drawbaugh, P. H. Kasler, Jane Dunbar, Cedric Tilberg and Margaret Zinn.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Floyd C. Baker, Fairfield R. 1, submitted to an operation for the removal of his tonsils at the Annie M. Warner hospital today. Other admittances were Mrs. Charles Ogden, Liberty street; H. H. Baschore, Littlestown R. 2, and Mrs. Luther Group, Gardners.

Discharges included Miss Margaret Tate, Baltimore street; Mrs.
George Zerling, Gettysburg, and Richard Plank, Gettysburg R. 2.

Before Law Sought Sculptor

Robert Irwin, former divinity student sought by police in connection with New York's triple Easter murder, is shown (in smock) with his class of student sculptors at St. Lawrence university, Canton, New York, from which he was expelled for instability.

To Inspect Stream in 'Fight' on Mosquitoes

While special council committees and President C. W. Epley, supervisor of the mosquito eradication project, push preparations for the campaign against the winged pests here, residents of the town are giving evidence of their approval of borough council's action in appropriating $500 for the undertaking

by coming forward with offers of contributions.

Donors are being sent to C. A.
Bixler, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who already has named a committee to conduct the community canvass for funds to be added to council's sum.

To Inspect Stream

A special committee of council members and borough officials went before the Adams county poor board at its regular session Tuesday afternoon and asked the cooperation of that body in cleaning the small stream that flows through county farm property and empties into Rock creek.

Poor board members insisted that the stream is not being polluted by any sewage from the county home buildings and that the only source of pollution is a sewer line that empties into the run near the Biglerville road.

The result of the conference between borough and county officials was that arrangements were made for a joint inspection of the stream and the sewer system at the county home together with the county health officer, Harry C. Bucher, Biglerville. The poor directors, borough representatives and health officer will conduct the survey next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The poor directors said they are not willing to have oil that will injure cattle poured on or along the stream that runs through the county land.

Expert Advice Awaited

The board of county commissioners was contacted by telephone by a member of the special borough council committee detailed to ask the commissioners to clean the Tibber. The commissioners told the councilman that they felt that the cleaning of the Tibber was "entirely a borough" matter and that they felt that there was nothing to justify the expenditure of county funds in that manner.

Expert advice in the methods of fighting mosquitoes will be received Saturday or next Monday when two entomologists come to Gettysburg from Washington, D. C., to confer with council and health board members on the best plans to be followed here in an organized fight against the pests.

face an information charging him with driving at the rate of 52 miles an hour on the Lincoln highway in tice of the Peace William D. Brown, Hunterstown. The other speeding charge will be filed before Justice of the Peace R. M. Straley, New Oxford, alleging that Stanley Andrew Slonaker, Fairfield, drove a truck at the rate of 50 miles an hour in Oxford township on Monday.

SPRING CLEAN-UP STARTS MONDAY

Ashes and Rubbish Will Be Collected Throughout Borough.

Gettysburg borough council asks the cooperation of the residents of the town in the annual spring clean-up.

The work which will be directed by Councilman William E. Biddle, chairman of the highway commit-

that collections of ashes and rub-

end of the borough and that the work will continue until the whole town has been covered.

The highway chairman has requested householders to place ashes and other rubbish in containers along alleys at the rear of their properties. Large cans, buckets or bags may be used and will greatly speed up the work of collecting the loads of rubbish to be hauled to a point below the sewage disposal plant where the borough is filling an old creek channel which was abandoned when the stream was straightened and cleaned several years ago.

Every effort will be made to conduct the clean-up in a prompt and thorough manner in connection

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: When Eve Mannersfield learns that her beloved Denny Carter, who left her in anger on the verge of their marriage, is to wed wealthy Mattie, she is shattered. Resuming her aunt's laking business, she finds contentment in her 200-year-old Connecticut house and orchard. She is kind to old Uncle Henry who helps her run the place, and to serious little Judge F. Featherstone whose parents have left him with Eve. They both adore her. George Cleveland, Eve's steady, dependable neighbor, has quietly waited for her love all summer.

Chapter 36

"I MISS HIM HORRIBLY"
"We're talking as idiotically as if they were Seymours," said Eve.

"Are they really idiotic?" George asked them with mild curiosity. "The only one I ever see is Lance, the poor kid who's always skulking round here under the impression that he still somehow has rights to the place, are one who tried to steal his ancestor's portrait from mother last spring—remember? If they're all like him they're pretty far gone."

She interrupted him. "Is Lance around still? Do be careful of him, George, he has an ugly temper."

"As a matter of fact, he was having a run-in with Mattie this very day about some peonies he wanted to dig up. They were a special rare variety, one of the plants I bought the place for. He was making a clean sweep."

They were interrupted by a honk, heralding the young Gardiner brother and sister, driving in with rackets and bathing suits on the back seat; an attractive pair of slim young dark things, enough alike in their shirts and shorts to be twins. Anne's hair was curled tightly over her head and Wallace's slicked smooth, that was about the only difference.

"Hello, you lazy loafers!" Wallace yelled. "The Warrens are practically on top of us with a carful of guests. Get up and let's cop the best court before they do."

Anne pranced a little, thrusting a thin brown arm through George's. "I grab George for a partner," she said. "You and he play together so much it's a racket, Eve."

"Racket! Gosh, woman, people are shot for less than that," said her brother. Whereat Anne laughed and went on dancing restlessly, still holding on to George. Eve smiled at her. She felt a million years older than carefree, 19-year-old Anne. George glanced at her over the tight-curved head as if they understood each other, partner or no partner.

"We saw that poor Seymour boy down by the gate," Anne said. "He was muttering to himself the funny way nuts do. Wonder why there're so many crazy people out in the country?"

"Well, the Gardiners would come—" George began teasingly. "Make him stop, Eve."

Eve laughed and shook her head as the four ran across the turf. It was all warm and pleasant. She liked life. She hoped she wouldn't see Denny, and have all the pain of him brought back. She had September weather and George's kindly brotherliness; she had a good game of tennis ahead of her and a swim after that. It was all easy and happy.

Perhaps she was a shallow sort of girl to be so easily contented. But, if she couldn't grieve over Denny all the time like somebody in a book, wasn't it better for her? And, after all, she had—she knew now—the life she loved, if not the man. She knew now that she had never really loved the life that was a part of Denny's happiness. . . . And then the Warrens, Jim and his new wife May, and four stranger guests, caught up with her and there was an end to meditation.

A Natural Mistake

They played till everyone was hot and drenched; they swam on top of that, which should have killed them but didn't. When the twilight came, bringing the cool wind of a Connecticut September evening, George and Uncle Henry built the fire in the outdoor fireplace; Eve made salad and Anne Gardiner ran to and fro from the Cleveland house bringing things inevitably forgotten; Eve's chocolate cake, left in the hall; the salt, extra paper napkins. They sat on the grass in the sweaters that were welcome now, eating more than seemed possible.

George, moving round the circle with the immense gray coffecup, said: "All gone. Wanted another cup, didn't you, Warren? Mattie has more in the house. I'm up, I might as well go—"

"Oh, George, bring my coat, will you?" Eve called after him. "In the hall." But George was out of hearing. "Judge, dear, run after him."

One of the stranger girls, mixed in, the very sketchy wholesale inroductions, said hastily, "Oh, ask your little boy to get mine too, Mrs. Cleveland, in the car."

"Judge—get all the coats—"

Then Eve took time to explain elaborately that she was not married to George and Judge was not their son; turning scarlet in the darkness, as she told herself petulantly, like a grammar-school girl.

"Well, anybody would have thought so," said the little girl with the Warrens, unperturbed.

"What Kay means is that if you and George aren't married, you ought to be," said young Wallace Gardiner. "All very proper, Kay. Eve's keeping Judge while his parents do something thrilling in Hollywood. Nobody's any relation to anybody—"

"Here's the coffee," George's voice said placidly above them in the dusk. "Here's your coat, Eve." He dropped it over her shoulders as he passed, and threw Judge his sweater with, "Put your sweater on, son. Right away!"

"I leave it to anybody!" complained Kay. In the laughter and confusion of teasing and explanation Eve sat very still. George, so far as one could see by starlight, was quite unembarrassed. Well, it was a natural mistake, George and she serenely intimate, with the fatherly old man and devoted small boy belonging to them all.

Latr still, when everyone, even Judge and Uncle Henry, had gone, leaving Eve and George to clear up the last things and wet the embers, George spoke slowly, out of the dimness.

"I thought it was—a nice mistake, Eve. How did you feel about it?" She did not answer. She was scarcely paying attention to what he said. She was staring up at the stars, dreamily happy in the September night.

"Eve?" She came out of her dream, and answered at random. "You're an angel, eGeorge; you pulled us out of the Kay girl's blunderings without the quiver of an eyelash!"

"All right," George said shortly. "But I'm damn tired of the role of angel. Good night, Eve."

He strode off to the house. Eve laughed to herself as she went her own way. George was no angel, certainly—but there was something funny and endearing to her always about his flashes of up-and-over temper. She wondered why he had suddenly turned cross, and decided that he had been working too hard lately.

"Bless his heart," she said as she ran into her own house. "I'll scold him tomorrow."

George Leaves Abruptly

But the morrow brought a hurricane of sudden orders. And before she had a moment to us the telephone on her own account, Judge, teetering on the doorkill as he waited for the basket of morning deliveries, said:

"Oh, say, George drove off to a house party in Sharon last night after we all went home! Adriano says he's staying till Tuesday, he thinks."

She felt a little dashed. . . . But after all, George was showing his usual good sense. He had been looking tired and strained lately.

"What do you think of that?" she said to Uncle Henry who was coming in with a basket of eggs. "Our Georgie off and away! I'm glad, aren't you?"

"He's so homey we forget he has a life besides the one he lives here," said Uncle Henry. "Yes, a break will do him good."

They smiled together, pleased that their George was having a rest and change. Eve went on with her work, cutting out ginger cookies deftly row after row on the enamel table, and singing lightly the old song Uncle Henry whistled so much:

Plaisir d'amour ne dure qu'un moment . . .
Chagrin d'amour dure toute la vie!

She worked hard that day, feeling a queer lack. It was so strange to have no George, sunburnt and smiling, leaning on her sill, resting as he talked and waited for his glass of milk or square of gingerbread, telling her some scrap of village gossip he had heard, or passing on a piece of scientific information, or delightedly boasting how right he had guessed about wufch suckers to keep. . . . Noon came. She fixed the usual snack for her menfolk. She thought she would go for a swim; they were in for a spell of hot weather apparently.

It proved to be a stupid swim. No George swimming alongside, teasing her with splashed water, racing her out for a game of tennis or lying on the cement parapet, a little sad because his too-white skin never would tan evenly or stay tanned long; playing about with her as if they were a couple of children, there on the grass and in the water.

"It's awful dull without Mr. Georgie," Mattie said when Eve came into her pantry for last night's cake plate.

"Isn't it!" Eve said with fervor. "I miss him horribly already—"

Something stopped her. Perhaps it was Mattie's little watchful gray eyes, fixed on her with a meaning interest. She said another idle word or two and went off through the sunshine with her plate, the wind blowing her rose-colored linen that George liked and lifting her hair. Suddenly her heart stood still and started racing again. She stopped, there on the path through the orchards, gasping, staring ahead. The words she had said were true.

As Eve realizes she loves George, tomorrow, Ellen becomes his fiancée.

FAVORS 6 MEALS A DAY—BUT SMALL ONES

Chicago (AP).—It is better for the system to eat five or six small meals daily than the customary three large ones, says Dr. Howard W. Haggard, associate professor of applied psychology at Yale university.

Doctor Haggard told an audience here several small meals during the day would not interfere with mental activity nearly as much as the regulation American breakfast, lunch and supper.

Horses and mules furnish reliable power, ready at all times. This power is flexible, because it can be used in units of any size. One horse in the garden, two on the wagon, two or more on the manure spreader, four to six on a plow, and more on heavier tools, say horse specialists.

Save Damaged Trees

Prompt inspection of the orchard should be made to determine whether any of the fruit trees have been damaged by mice. Injured trees will need bridge-grafting without delay, declare Penn State fruit specialists. If this operation is postponed until growth starts the loss will be greater.

Prepare Lamb Crop

To prevent reduced returns on the lamb crop, all lambs should be docked and all male lambs intended for market should be castrated. These two operations may be performed at the same time, but sheep specialists recommend docking when the lambs are five to 10 days old and castration when the males are two to three weeks old.

Add Organic Matter

Manure or green manure crops, especially a clover sod, turned down in the rotation, will build up the organic matter and increase the water holding capacity of the soil, say State College vegetable gardeners.

Prevent Soil Washing

Many farmers are using the sensible practice of plowing washy slopes in strips, 100 feet or more wide, and leaving alternate strips of equal width in sod, report agronomists. These sod-strips can be plowed next spring when the other strips are in grain, preferably winter grain.

Feed Ewes Liberally

Breeding ewes should be fed liberally in order to produce a good healthy lamb crop, according to Penn State sheep specialists. A good legume hay, such as clover or alfalfa, fed with a grain mixture composed of five parts of oats, two parts of corn, one part of bran, and one part of pea-sized oil cake, will insure a good milk flow.

BASQUES FAIL TO HALT REBEL DRIVE ON BILBOA

Lose 10,000 in Battle in Which Fascists Gain Twelve Square Miles.

Vitorio, Spain, April 7 (AP).—Leaders of the insurgent northern army driving toward Bilbao Tuesday night asserted they had "thrust a foot in the half-open door" of the Basque province and that the road to the sea could now be considered open to them.

In Tuesday's drive alone, they said, 12 square miles of mountainous territory was captured as Gen. Emilio Mola's soldiers battled through rainstorms toward Durango, key to Bilbao, the Basque capital, 16 miles farther on.

Insurgents declared the Basque forces disputing the mountain fastnesses with them had lost 10,000 of their best men in killed, wounded and captured in the six days of the offensive. The Basque dead alone were estimated at 2,000.

Reports Defenders Weakened Officers of the attacking forces said the slaughter by their shock troops, who were hardly mountaineers, had seriously weakened the Basque Separatists, Anarchists and Communists allied in the defense of the Basque country.

Towering slopes covered in the insurgent advance were described as covered with the defenders' dead, especially thick where machine-gun nests or artillery emplacements had been.

Still the attackers admittedly had to fight their way yard by yard on the way to Durango. They were not quite clear yet of the narrow, twisting passes, and the Basque defense had by no means collapsed.

Take Basque Headquarters

Capture of Ochandiano, nine miles south of Durango, was hailed by the insurgents as of high military value. Moreover, it enabled them to establish a base where the Basque Nationalists formerly had headquarters.

According to reports trickling back from the front, residents of Bilbao were evacuating amid "great confusion" and "serious disorders." One of the government's most important upsets came when a tank column became mired on a mountain road. General Mola's headquarters declared 800 Basque infantrymen were killed as they charged on ahead of the tanks.

New Cannon Reported

Bilbao, Spain, April 7 (AP).—Military experts returning from the Basque battle front today declared Gen. Emilio Mola's insurgents are using new quick-firing cannon in their battering drive toward Bilbao. The new weapons, the experts said, are capable of firing six times in rapid succession before reloading.

They asserted the Basque battle, with General Mola's troops pushing toward Durango, was probably the fiercest of the civil war.

The Febus (Spanish) News Agency reported Governor General Belario Tomas, of Asturias, had offered to dispatch 35,000 Asturians to aid Basques.

The Basque government declined the offer, the agency reported, saying that at least for the present Basque troops were not in need of assistance.

TO PLACE BIBLE

IN EVERY HOME

Evansville, Ind. (AP).—R. K. Blakely, former ice man, is trying to do for Evansville's homes what the Gideon society has done for the country's hotels.

He's conducting a one-man campaign to put a Bible in every home. It's not a commercial proposition, he says, it's an ambition.

"It seemed to me that if people knew more about the Bible they would be better able to understand the lessons to be found in the New Testament," he explained. "It's amazing what a slight acquaintance most people have with the Bible."

On his sixtieth birthday, November 13, 1935, Blakely started distributing New Testaments after naming himself the "Helping Hand New Testament League" and adopting the motto, "One in every home."

When he finds a home without a Bible, he offers a New Testament for 25 cents. If there's no sale, he leaves the book anyway. He has sold 500 Testaments and given away 100.

American tourists spent an estimated $495,000,000 abroad in 1936.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS
CROW did not wait for the other Puddle Muddlers and Willy Nilly. He flew at once over to the Empty House and there he saw, as Rip had reported, a monkey and a donkey and an elephant. Without saying a crowish word to them, he flew back and shouted to Willy Nilly and the others as they were walking along:

"It's true! I've seen them with my own good strong eyes. Yes, caw, caw. I've seen a monkey and a donkey and an elephant."

"What were they doing there?
Were they ill? Do they want to be patients in the Empty House?"
asked Willy Nilly as the crow flew down to the ground.

"I can't answer so many questions at a time."

"Answer the first question first,
the second question next and the third question last," cackled Top Notch, as he looked in his little mirror to make sure that he would be at his best before the visitors.

"We'll find out when Willy Nilly gets there," cawed Christopher.

"You don't mean to tell me that you didn't discover the reason why they are there?" barked Rip.

"Let's not waste time in chattering," said Willy Nilly. "We want to get to the Empty House as quickly as we can."

"They're outside the house. I can tell you that much," said Christopher.

"We may join you later on,"
growled Jelly Bear. "There's nothing to eat at the Empty House and we plan to take a food walk."

"Our visitors may have brought food with them," suggested Christopher and Jelly Bear said: "That's true. We'll come along too."

And then Willy Nilly saw their visitors!

OLD CRANKMIRE'S IDEA

Old Crankmire heard us talking, every one a friend and neighbor,

Of the troubles that have risen between capital and labor,
And we wondered very gravely could
the wrong be all one-sided, As for one or for the other even we that night divided.

We used all the common phrases.
Here it's needless to repeat them.

But which ever cause we favored all we talked was "how to beat
them."

When Old Crankmire broke his silence, "We are wrong!" he fairly spluttered.

"All we've ever learned to think of
is which side our bread is buttered."

"We're a bunch of bargain drivers.
Be it capital or labor,
Be it customer or merchant be it stranger, friend or neighbor, We are twisted in our thinking. As we deal with one another.
Every one of us is seeking some advantage of the other."

"The employer thinks: 'How little must I give him to appease
him?'
And the workman thinks: 'How little need I do today to please
him?'

Today's Talk
By George Matthew Adams
HOW TO GET ON

MY FRIEND Dale Carnegie has written a very good book that I highly recommend. It's called "How to Win Friends and Influence People." The thing that makes it such good reading is that he takes the words of others, who have proved their points, to get his own say across. He has creamed the minds of thousands for the benefit of his readers—and they number into the thousands.

Marcus Aurelius said: "Practice attention to what others say, and do your best to get into the speaker's mind." That's a simple statement—but it has lasted for nearly 2,000 years! The reason for this is that it is so practical—and has worked, and always will work.

To get on we must try to see the other fellow's viewpoint. Not only are all the strikes that are so prevalent, wasteful. They are downright stupid. And both sides are to blame. If employer and worker would only get into each other's mind, there would be no strikes. There would be fairness and consideration all around.

The late Elbert Hubbard used to write a great deal of good, sound horse sense. I recall a noted line, "Get out or else get in line," he said.
As a boy it always amused me to see a donkey suddenly stop, lie down and refuse to go any farther. I have seen him whipped and kicked and abused. Still he sat. But just the moment that he was treated with just a little kindness, he seemed to scent another world, and then he would quiltly arise—and go on as though nothing serious had happened.

There is too much of the donkey in most of us. We have to get rid of him if we want to get on. A sick patient feels good the moment a cheerful friend or physician calls. No other medicine is necessary.

If you are ill nothing that is good tastes right. People with resentment in their hearts are ill. The habitual critic isn't normal and healthy.
It's best not to argue, or stir up the mind of such a one.

People's wills have to be smoothed before persuasion becomes effective. Understanding is the finest medicine of which I know. It has won many a friend—and it has never lost one.

COMMUNICATION

Gettysburg, April 4, 1937.

To The Editor,

The Gettysburg Times.
Sir: Apropos of the mosquito eradication program and how to meet it The Times is doing its bit—for on the second page of the edition of April 1 is a very subtle suggestion for Gettysburg ladies. Although editorial modesty has relegated this so essential a habilliment to Gettysburg's female comfort to the second page, where it may have been overlooked by many interested readers. We suggest that the "cut" Skeeter Socks" be again published on the front page with some appropriate and appealing caption, i. e., "What well dressed Gettysburg women will wear this year" with description and price.

Then if the city solons would obtain exclusive rights of sale from the inventor and establish a sales room it might help to finance the eventual eradication of the mosquito.
Or it possibly would be an induc-ment to tourists if the hotels and rooming houses would advertise, "We protect our patrons—skeeter socks, cellulose mittens and cellophane hoods furnished free to all registered guests."

Then, too, the merchants could stimulate trade by offering "skeeter socks" to all purchasers over a given amount. The battlefield guides also could add a mite to their income by renting these necessary adjuncts to visitors while touring the battlefield.

In fact there are so many possibilities in this "skeeter sock" that we think it will be wise for our councilman fathers to appoint a committee to "look into it" and report what can be done to help the poor innocent, but well-bitten tourist, so recently inoculated with "Tiber virus," while we old Gettysburgians have become immune through the many bites received in past years.
An old joke just recalled—Why did they remove the benches from the square? The mosquitoes monopolized them waiting for unsuspecting tourists and then boasted that they had both regal and prebend blood in their veins.

Now, while all this may seem frivolous to many readers yet seriously, the mosquito menace is more a curse than a blessing to Gettysburg's fame and future welfare. We quote Grover Cleveland, "It is a condition, not a theory that confronts us," and a few well-placed bits of an elusive

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart "The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adierika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."

—Mrs. Jas. Filler. Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli." Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation.

END OF CHRYSLER STRIKE RETURNS 85,000 TO WORK

Peace Terms Withheld Pending Formal Signing of Agreement.

Lansing, Mich., April 7 (AP).—Gov. Frank Murphy, Michigan's industrial peacemaker, announced Tuesday night that "an agreement has been reached" in the Chrysler automotive strike.

"An agreement has been reached," Governor Murphy smilingly announced as he summoned newspaper men into his office in the statehouse.

To Return 85,000 to Jobs

The settlement of the strike, called March 8, will return approximately 65,000 Chrysler workers and some 20,000 employees of dependent parts manufacturers to their jobs.

The agreement was perfected in a conference between Walter P. Chrysler, corporation chairman, and John L. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization, which backed the strike of the United Automobile Workers of America.

No intimation of the final terms came from any source. Both Chrysler and Lewis hurried from the governor's office, without comment as Murphy made his announcement.

To Seek Other Settlements

Governor Murphy announced that he was sending invitations to officials of the Reo motor car company here and the Hudson motor car company at Detroit, as well as union officials, to meet with him to try to effect settlements of strikers in those plants.

He said he would ask them to reach agreements similar to that arranged between the Chrysler corporation, one of the three largest automobile producers in the United States, and the union.

Governor Murphy praised the conciliatory attitudes of Chrysler and Lewis and thanked James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, who participated in the conferences.

Credits Leaders' Patience

"Only the patience and reasonableness of Mr. Chrysler and Mr. Lewis have made another settlement in a great industrial conflict possible by peaceful methods, in an atmosphere of reason, tolerance and justice," Murphy said.

"As a result, cordial relationships result between the Chrysler corporation and their employees. I am extremely grateful to those men, to Mrs. Perkins (Frances Perkins, secretary of labor) for her help and to Mr. Dewey (James E. Dewey, federal conciliator), whose services were invaluable."

Called During Negotiations

The union called the strike which closed Chrysler's eight Detroit plants—leading to other shutdowns and curtailments—while its officials and those of the company were discussing demands submitted by the U. A. W. A.

The corporation rejected the union's demand for recognition as the sole bargaining agency for the 67,000 Chrysler employees and a code signal, "My Hand Is Up," caused the workers to sit down.

The men remained in the plants after the corporation obtained an injunction against them. Governor Murphy called together Chrysler and Lewis in his office here on March 23, and the next day the conferees reached a preliminary truce which provided for evacuation of the strikers. The unionists vacated the factories on March 25.

Explosion "G-Man" Puts Future Blasts on Spot

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY

Washington.—When David J. Price picks up a headline screaming "explosion," he packs his bag for a quick plane ride to the scene.

This chief of the agriculture department's bureau of chemical research is recognized as the world's outstanding "explosion detective" when it comes to tracking down the source of a blast.

With his staff, he follows tip "clues" to past explosions to arrest future ones.

The quick-eyed specialist is not interested one whit in plain dynamite or nitro-glycerine. But any natural explosion of dust or gas makes his brown eyes sparkle. He pores over photographs of the scene carried in newspapers, and calls it "finding the fundamentals." Studying such fundamentals back in 1917 brought the discovery with colleagues in the bureau of mines that coal dust is as great an enemy of the miner as coal gas.

Discovers Dust Danger

Price also was an early discoverer of the mounting danger of dust explosions in the industrial age. As a result he has helped design buildings that vent the dust and avoid ignition.

Once a great industrialist chanced upon an article describing Price's work, and recalled he had a new plant with a possible dust hazard opening within 24 hours. He sent for Price.

"You'll have a dust explosion within a day after you open this plant," Price told the man.

"How can we prevent it?"

"You can't do that immediately, but you can remove a serious danger to your workmen."

Engineers recommended opening the plant, believing Price was blowing off a lot of empty theory. But they did take his advice by replacing a big section of roofing in a dust laden conduit with a heavy cloth.

Prediction Comes True

Within 24 hours the explosion Price predicted had occurred but it vented itself harmlessly through the cloth roofing. Then they called him in again and he showed them how to pipe waste carbon dioxide gas from their furnaces to vulnerable spots in the plant. They have had no trouble since, because carbon dioxide gas is death to fire.

Natural explosions are simple enough. They are merely sudden ignitions of inflammable materials, usually gas or fine particles. The resulting gases require expansion within a fraction of a second or else an explosion like the New London, Tex., school disaster follows.

Price does not wait for explosions to occur naturally to give him new problems to study. He makes his own at an "explosion gallery" he has built in Arlington, Va.

Stops 'Flood Fires'

Price likes to tell how his men stopped the fires in the flood zone last spring—fires that were caused by water.

Farmers were puzzled when their barns started burning down after the waters receded in West Virginia and Ohio. Price told them to stick a thermometer in their hay and call a fire department to scatter it when the temperature reached 200 degrees Fahrenheit. They did, and the barns stopped burning.

The answer is that bacteria in water-soaked hay caused fermentation, and that started heat in the heart of the stack.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Trailer to Replace Cathedral For South Ohio Episcopalians

Columbus, Ohio, April 7 (AP).—One of the youngest bishops in America, the Rt. Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, 45, of Cincinnati, won approval Tuesday of a plan to make the only cathedral in his Protestant Episcopal diocese an automobile trailer.

Bishop Hobson, chairman of the church's forward movement commission, urged that the historic St. Paul's Cathedral in Cincinnati be razed.

The sixty-third annual convention of the church's southern Ohio diocese voted "hearty consent" to Bishop Hobson's plans.

"If we do not build a huge cathedral there will be no danger of a white elephant for coming leaders to inherit," the bishop said. He praised the work being done in big cathedrals, but said:

"It just happens that the situation in southern Ohio is somewhat different, and perhaps you have a rather strange bishop.

"If we were to construct a large building, I wouldn't know where to put it, and after I had it I wouldn't know what to do with it. It might be entirely in the wrong location 50 years hence."

The "church on wheels," to be known as "St. Paul's Wayside cathedral," would go to the people of the diocese, the bishop said, instead of waiting for them to come to it, and would permit greater service to all the parishes and missions.

The Wayside cathedral will contain an altar, the bishop's chair, library, motion picture camera and projector and displays from all diocesan departments.

Seating space for 24 would be provided for services within the cathedral while the rear end could be opened and a loud-speaker system used for outdoor rites.

"The beauty of this," the bishop said, "is that it's a good deal easier to make this dream come true than most dreams about cathedrals."

Bishop Hobson was a major commanding the Third Battalion of the Three Hundred and Fifty-sixth infantry in the World war. He was wounded and gassed and won the distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism.

Meiji Shrine, Japanese sport center, will be the scene of the major competitions in the 1940 Olympics. An Olympic Village to accommodate 3,000 will be built in suburbs of Tokyo.

Spring Scene

MARCH would be a dismal month indeed if man had no imagination. Fortunately, hope springs eternal, and each returning Spring sees new ideas, new aspirations brought once more to life.

"We'll do that in the Spring," is a familiar expression. Plans shelved during the Winter are dusted off. Now, the family talks about replacing the old car . . . buying new clothes . . . a new radio . . . dahlia bulbs . . . paint for the garage. A thousand things are needed . . . a thousand tasks must be done.

Here in the advertising pages of The Gettysburg Times is real Spring news. Articles you need, carefully selected and arranged, are paraded before your critical eyes. Read the advertisements thoughtfully . . . and so choose wisely. For advertisements, the maker's guide to good values, will be your guide to a happier, more cheerful Spring.

Discord Flares On Labor Fronts

(By the Associated Press)

Discord cropped out anew in the atmosphere industry Tuesday while the Chrysler strike was being settled. More than 500 employees of the General Motors corporation's steering gear plant at Saginaw, Michigan, started a sit-down demonstration to support demands for recognition of a shop steward system. The unit employs 1,200.

Simultaneously, senate leaders at Washington drafted a resolution condemning sit-down strikes and denouncing illegal labor practices by employers, agreed to submit it to a vote and predicted it would be adopted speedily.

President Roosevelt declined to comment on such strikes at a white house press conference.

For the second day adherents of the C. I. O. and the rival American Federation of Labor resorted to fist swinging near the electric vacuum cleaner plant in Cleveland. Four men were beaten before mounted policemen dispersed the combatants. The concert reopened Monday but only to A. F. of L. members.

Approximately 500 coal diggers in the ranks of the progressive mine workers' union struck at mine B in Springfield, Illinois. They demanded the same wage scale as that recently posted for the United mine workers.

Three hundred sitters held the Edmonton (Alta.) plant of Swift Canadian, Ltd., with the announced intention of remaining until they obtain union recognition and Saturday afternoon holidays.

Governor Signs Teachers' Bill

Harrisburg, Apr. 7.—Pennsylvania's first teacher tenure law, prohibiting dismissal of school teachers except for defined reasons, was signed Tuesday by Governor Earle.

The senate, approved house amendments and sent the measure to the governor. The legislation, sponsored by the administration, drew thousands of teachers to the capital in recent weeks to voice their endorsement of the move.

One dissenting vote was sounded as the bill was enacted. It came from Clarence J. Buckman, republican senator from Bucks county. He said: "Both school directors and teachers alike in my district oppose this bill. I do not believe the bill is for the best interests of the teachers themselves. No constituent ever asked me to vote for it. Seventy per cent of the senators think it a bad bill, but lacked courage to vote against it."

The law lists these as valid causes for dismissal: Intemperance, negligence, immorality, inefficiency, persistent violations of school laws.
